LOS ANGELES - Adult novelty manufacturer The Screaming O will celebrate the launch of the Association for Safe Fun Sex with a party at 9 p.m. Wednesday, May 14 at Area in West Hollywood.

The launch party at the trendy Los Angeles night spot will be covered by mainstream media and will have guests such as J-Kwon, Adam Rifkin, Ron Jeremy and his gang of girls, Red Light District, Club Jenna, and A! Entertainment.

The Association for Safe Fun Sex, organized by The Screaming O, aims to promote safe sex that is fun and enjoyable.

"ASFX will be teaming up with celebrities and charities such as the Urban Health Institute to promote and provide expert information on STD and unwanted pregnancy prevention, as well as HIV and AIDS education," said Keith Caggiano, vice president of The Screaming O. "We are excited to launch this organization and get the word out about safe, fun sex. We have gotten an incredible response from both celebrities and the general public, and this party will really get people pumped about safe sex in a brand-new way."

The Screaming O girls will be present during the event to pass out The Screaming O gifts such as T-shirts and condom packs.

Area is located at 643 N. La Cienega Blvd. in West Hollywood.
