LOS ANGELES — With an eye toward expanding their sales catalogue, Screaming O has hired Conde Aumann as their newest sales representative. Screaming O Vice President Keith Caggiano said that Aumann's experience in organizing private parties will give her a leg up as she joins their sales force.

Aumann, who has an extensive background in home parties, brings more than seven years of sex toy experience to the company.

“Conde’s enthusiasm — along with her extensive skill set - made her a perfect match for our team,” Caggiano said. “She will build on our existing relationships and work to expand our presence with all of our exciting new products coming out this summer.”

Aumann said that her main goals in her new position will be to introduce the market to Screaming O's new products, including the FingOs, Two-O and Bullet Buddies.

“I am very excited,” Aumann said. “The Screaming O is one of the top companies in the industry with the best reviewed products. I expect to take their presence to the next level.”

Aumann will make her debut at the ANE expo in Los Angeles on July 13-16.
