LOS ANGELES - Adult novelty manufacturer The Screaming O has released the FingO, which is described as a "super-powered" miniature vibrator that fits on a finger.

The FingO is available in Tingly, Wavy, and Nubby versions that provide different sensations.

Justin Ross, president of The Screaming O, recommends wearing one on each finger and starting by teasing with the Tingly, then switching over to Wavy, and then "bringing it home" with the Nubby for best results.

"Or you can simply switch back and forth like you're playing the piano," he said. "The best part is FingO-ing doesn't have to be a solo sport, and the most fun can be had using them during sex to provide vibrating power with complete control."

The FingO is ergonomically designed and will fit any finger, Ross said, adding that its angled tip "hits the spot." It features The Screaming O's popular super-powered bullet and is crafted of high-quality silicone that makes cleanup easy.

The vibrator is waterproof and wireless and comes with replaceable batteries that have a life of about 80 minutes.
