LOS ANGELES - Adult novelty manufacturer The Screaming O has announced a new addition to its Scream Team. Conde Aumann has come on board as their newest "Screamstress;" most would refer to her as a sales representative.

Aumann has an extensive background in home parties, bringing over seven years of adult novelty industry experience to the manufacturer. According to Vice President Keith Caggiano, she will be introducing new items to the market as well as helping retailers and distributors keep their customers screaming.

"Conde's enthusiasm, along with her extensive skill set, made her a perfect match for our team," he said. "She will build our existing relationships and work to expand our presence with all of our exciting new products coming out this summer."

Aumann will make her debut with the company at the upcoming AVN Novelty Expo in Universal City, Calif., on July 14 and 15.

"I am very excited," she said. "The Screaming O is one of the top companies in the industry with the best reviewed products. I expect to take their presence to the next level."
